Interactive Panel with Regulators on Regulatory Excellence

This panel will focus on meeting the Barton's report recommendation, "an agile regulatory system that acts as a catalyst for investment and innovation" and the Government regulatory reform agenda announced in the 2018 Federal Budget. CCSPA members are regulated by numerous pieces of Canadian legislation, regulation and policies, specifically under CEPA, CCPSA and PCPA. Panelists will speak to the world-class regulations currently within their purview and CCSPA has posed challenge questions on how we can work together to deliver future regulations/policies against the goal of innovation.

The format is an informal panel discussion where everyone is seated and questions will be facilitated by a CCSPA Board member. Preliminary thought starter questions include: What does it mean to be an "excellent" regulator? What qualities does regulatory excellence require? How is such excellence measured? How can a regulator achieve the goal of regulatory excellence? And how can you work with your regulated community to achieve excellence?

Marc D'Iorio, Director General, Industrial Sectors, Chemicals and Waste Directorate, ECCC
Tolga Yalkin, Director General, Consumer Product Safety Directorate, Health Canada

Roslynn Miller-Lee, Director, Regulatory Review Coordination Team, Regulatory Operations and Regions Branch, Health Canada
